Your Career Match

First Name: Sam

Last Name: Sample

Report Date: 2 February 2014, 21:09

Choosing a career that's right for you

Suitability for a career is determined by a number of factors including your personality style. If you choose a career based on your natural talents you will enjoy your job and be happier at work. When your strengths match the job it's a 'good fit'. Employers call these your employability or transferable skills.

In our research, we've found that people are most successful when they are in jobs that allow them to use their natural talents. Knowing your personality style is one of the best ways of finding out what you are good at and the careers that match.

About you, what you are good at, and the careers that match

MyCareerMatch helps you discover who you are and find out things about yourself that maybe you didn't realise you have.

Each of us has great potential, and each personality style has its own strengths and weaknesses. You have your individual talents; what you're good at; how you like to do things and what you enjoy most. These can be different from your family and friends and that's what makes you unique. If people choose to do things differently to you or prefer things that you don't it doesn't make them better or worse, just different.

It's important you understand that one style is not better than another and there are no right or wrong styles and each style can be successful.

Helping you take the next step

MyCareerMatch provides valuable information to help you choose a career path that's right for you. This report lists a number of career choices that match the talents you have. Each career is linked to job information on the National Careers Service website and to a matching courses at Middlesex University.

We don't expect that you'll be attracted to all of these. Select from the list the ones you find interesting and do your research and find out more about them. Regardless of the career you choose you will need to have the skills and qualifications to get a job. This means higher education and skills and apprenticeship training.

We acknowledge the kind permission of the National Careers Service, to access their job and career information in this report.

The National Careers Service provides information, advice and guidance to help everyone aged 13 and over make decisions on learning, training and work opportunities. The service is available throughout England and offers confidential, helpful and impartial advice, supported by qualified careers advisers. The Job Profiles are produced and owned by the National Careers Service.

Add to your CV

You will see this icon in the report. It indicates suggested content about you to add to your CV. The purpose of a CV is to tell the employer who you are and what you're good at. We suggest that you take information in this report and include it in your CV.

Four personality styles

MyCareerMatch uses four style identifiers, (D) DRIVER, (P) PROMOTER, (S) SUPPORTER and (A) ANALYSER. When blended together in varying percentages, these four personality styles make us who we are.

Driver

Drivers are Adventurers who are active and on the go all the time. They are natural risk takers who like to lead and win every challenge.

Promoter

Promoters are Socialisers, outgoing and fun to be with who have a great imagination and who are good communicators.

Supporter

Supporters are Helpers, kind, dependable, practical people who are patient and easy to get along with and enjoy helping others.

Analyser

Analysers are Thinkers, great with facts and numbers, good organisers who pay attention to detail and who do things accurately.

Congratulations you are a

Dominant Style

Driver

Backup Style

Analyser

This report identifies your personality style as a Driver Analyser. It is based on the answers you gave to the survey and will help you understand who you are and the natural talents you possess.

The first style is your Dominant style. This is the one that governs how you behave most of the time. The second style is your Backup style. It's like your co-pilot and kicks in when there's a need for balance and sound decision making.

Your personality chart

People are a blend of four styles and each style has its own level of strength.

The percentages in this graph indicate how strongly each style influences your behaviour.

The highest percentage is your Dominant style. You can have one or two Backup styles. When styles are of equal percentage the order of priority is D, P, S then A.

Profile: DRIVER ANALYSER

About you and the things you're good at

The following pages describe your DRIVER ANALYSER strengths and the things you're good at.

As an Driver Analyser you have many exceptional talents that are highly regarded. Recognising these will help you decide on a career that uses what you're naturally good at.

Your Driver Analyser style

Driver Analysers are determined people who have great confidence, are not easily side tracked and can't be pushed into doing something they don't want to do. This can make you very stubborn but also very determined. You say exactly what you think and sometimes this will upset others but you don't mind because you are a direct straight forward person who once having set your mind on something just goes after it.

You feel that you can manage things on your own if you have to and you are confident when making decisions. You are prepared to take calculated risks and give it a go. You have the confidence to take charge and you are not afraid to tackle new situations. You are a great problem solver and have the ability to carefully consider and weigh up your options. You love a challenge and being the winner is always your goal. You don't get too emotional and prefer to deal with facts and figures than with people. You're not unsocial but you don't have to have people around you all the time.

You are a creative thinker and something of an inventor. Your talent to think things through helps to drive your adventurer spirit. It also allows you to come up with new ideas that you try out. You persist with something until you become expert at it.

Words that describe you

Inventive, creative, demanding, assertive, forward thinking, forceful, reserved, thoughtful, logical, active, alert, tangible results, direct, self-starter, systematic, precise, accurate and perfectionist.

Your work-related strengths

- Ability to work well with defined tasks and tangible products
- Keen powers of observation and an excellent memory for factual information
- Ability to bring order to confusing data and to recognise facts
- Aptitude for working alone or alongside others you respect
- Ability to stay calm and cool in a crisis when under pressure
- Ability to recognise what needs doing and what is necessary to complete the job
- Aptitude for working with your hands and with tools
- Ability to adapt well to sudden change and shift gears quickly
- Practicality and commonsense
- Ability to identify and make good use of available resources

The qualities you bring to a job

- You accept challenges
- You value time
- You adhere to procedures and policies
- You get results
- You make decisions
- You solve problems
- You focus on detail
- You bring reality to the situation
- You enjoy working to guidelines

Ideal job environment

Driver Analysers are best where:

- There is freedom from control and supervision
- There are challenges and rewards
- Tasks can be broken down into measurable components
- Relationships skills are not required
- There is an opportunity to delegate and manage
- They can make decisions
- Technical, task-oriented work is required
- There is an environment where quality and standards are important

Things you like

- New ideas
- A new challenge
- To make things happen
- To show you can do it for yourself
- Be respected for what you can do
- Be in charge
- Practical ideas and suggestions
- To finish what you start
- Doing things you know you're good at
- To do things step by step
- Things that make sense

What you are good at

- Overcoming obstacles
- Pushing the group ahead
- Accepting challenges
- Maintaining the focus on goals
- Getting results
- Providing leadership
- Working carefully
- Solving problems
- Organising material
- Thinking logically

What we admire about you

- You are a determined person
- You have confidence in yourself
- You are able to handle things on your own
- You are decisive
- You know what you want and go after it
- You like to get results when you do things
- You have a lot of drive
- You are upfront with people
- You have high standards
- You always try to do your best work
- You like things to be organised
- You do things in a logical way
- You like to think about things and then decide
- You are a trustworthy person

How you make a difference

You make a difference by "being yourself". Being yourself means using your strengths and the things you're good at. But being yourself is not enough. You need to have skills and qualifications so that you can utilise your strengths to be the best you can be.

People with a DRIVER ANALYSER style similar to yours make a difference by:

Taking charge

Your leadership skills compel you to take charge and be in control. You make a difference when it's needed to turn a business around or solve a problem because you are willing to back yourself. Your self-confidence and leadership qualities encourage others to follow and support you.

Setting high standards

Your natural instincts to win mean that you set high standards for yourself and others. You make a difference by encouraging others to be the best they can be and not to expect anything less than success. You respect loyalty and hard work.

Being a creative thinker

You make a difference by being a visionary, a "future oriented" person who doesn't look back. You are good at developing plans, schemes and concepts, sometimes the bigger the better. Nothing is impossible. You use a logical approach to design and innovation.

Solving problems

You are a natural and gifted problem solver. You make a difference by being able to get to the core of a problem and provide solutions that work. You see the problem as a challenge rather than a setback, and this gives you the clarity to see through it.

Looking at the big picture

You prefer to work with the big picture, the big idea, rather than get into the detail of it all. You make a difference by your rational approach that allows you to see how things connect. Your visionary approach lets you see how everything relates to each other and where problems may arise. This is why Drivers tend to be the entrepreneurs of society.

Getting it done on time

You are realistic and strive for results such as getting things done on time, or saving money or figuring out how to be more productive. You want to see tasks completed efficiently. You make a difference by ensuring that things are done correctly and deadlines are met.

Careers that match what you're good at

It's preferable to be in a job that uses your talents than in a job where you struggle because the job's "not you" and you're being asked to do things that you're not good at.

The following pages set out careers that match your natural strengths and talents.

Deciding what to do when you leave school can be a tough question and you can decide in different ways such as, what do I like doing, what am I interested in, what do my parents suggest, what subjects am I best at and who am I and what are my natural strengths.

At MyCareerMatch we believe that understanding who you are and what you're good at is a good way to start your career journey.

Good luck with your career

"Your work is going to fill a large part of your life, and the only way to be truly satisfied is to do what you believe is great work. And the only way to do great work is to love what you do. If you haven't found it yet, keep looking. Don't settle. As with all matters of the heart, you'll know when you find it". Steve Jobs - Founder of Apple Computers

Thank you for completing your career personality survey. We trust this report helps you identify your strengths and talents, and the careers that best match your personality style.

Understanding who you are and what you're naturally good at are closely linked to career success. Finding a career that you are passionate about, that you'll love, and that matches who you are, should be your goal.

We want to emphasise the importance of education. We know you hear this all the time, but it's true. If you think of the things you want in your life you'll quickly realise that without a good paying job you simply won't be able to afford these.

If you leave school without going on to further study at university, technical college, apprenticeship or skills training you will find it difficult to get a job that gives you the security you need to build a future. Without educational qualifications your career choices will be limited.
